HISTORY

Is it actually true that our twelve years of school are over and that we are almost ready for graduation? It is true. Yet it seems as if it were only yesterday that Miss Louisa Rosemond taught us our ABC's at the age of six when we were so timid. Before we knew it, we had grown out of timidity, learned our ABC's, and were promoted to the second grade. Mrs. Lucille Lyon continued to teach us. After learning to read "This is Bob," "Bob can read," etc., we stepped into grade three, where Miss Muttilah Pittard taught us. We were very happy to have Eleanor Murray join us there in the third grade.

With time slipping by very fast, we soon reached grade four where Miss Ollie Lyon helped us through the hardest grade in school. By that time we had reached the fifth grade with Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Marilyn Mangum to teach us for the next nine months the things we should know at that age. We were very sorry to see JoAnne Thompson leave us to go to Apex, also Pat Cates, who left us to go to Durham.

Then one bright day staring before us was September 1 when we entered grade six, with Mrs. John Newell and Mrs. Elizabeth Jeffreys as our teachers. We were all heartsick that year when Mrs. Jeffreys had to leave us because of illness; from there Miss Elizabeth Emory helped us finish the year.

Mrs. Earnestine McClung was our seventh grade teacher. Everyone in the class was very proud and happy when one of our classmates, Sue Peed, won the Halloween Queen Crown. That year at Christmas Mrs. Woodrow Taylor took over as teacher. Before we realized it the year had slipped by and we were ready for our last year in elementary school. Then we had a new experience when we had our first man teacher, Mr. Carmel Wellmon. Although we hated to have Kay O'Briant leave us to go to Cary, we were very happy to have Ann Rea join us from Cary. We lost Christine Perry also. At the close of that year when we received our report cards and they said, "Promoted to grade nine" we were excited and thought it was only a dream. Yet when the first day of September came around that fall we realized it was not a dream. Mr. Bill Joyner and Mr. Earl Lamb helped us struggle through that worst year.

When we came back to old C.H.S. the following year we had a new faculty member who happened to be our sophomore instructor, Miss Annette Watson. We were very happy to have Bette Thomas join us from Chapel Hill.

Alas! After ten long years we were Juniors! With Mrs. Margaret McIntosh as our teacher, we were eager to put on the most fabulous Junior-Senior Banquet ever and to select the most beautiful classrings. Pat Cates rejoined us that year and Barbara Cuddeback also joined our happy throng. We regretted that Wayne Overton had to leave us after eleven years together.

Now the top at last! We are "dignified" Seniors and working hard for the diplomas we are hoping to receive in May. Though many pleasant thoughts have been expressed at having finished Reading, 'Riting, and 'Rithmetic, we are sure that all of us will feel pangs of regret when we finally realize we are leaving for good and will not be registering for classes at dear old C.H.S. anymore.

CLASS POEM

FLOWER
White Carnation

As parting time this year draws nigh
When we must leave dear Creedmoor High,
Gladness fills each and every heart,
For our goals have been reached, at least, in part.
But, too, we're sad that we must go,
Because we must leave our friends also.

We were not here to play, to dream, to drift;
We had hard work to do, and loads to lift.
Sometimes our burdens seemed too much to bear
And desperation outweighed reason and care.
The way was dim and the path was steep;
Yet onward we struggled, our merits to reap.

The years have passed in swift fleet.
And the time has come for us to greet
A different challenge of another day,
An important challenge along life's way.
The world we face with courage bold;
Oh, help us all to keep this hold.

PROPHECY

On this day, May 20, 1960, George and I decided to take a peek into the lives of all our old classmates of the class of '55. We did not have to roam far from home—we soon discovered—for most of our classmates had returned to dear old Creedmoor to seek their fortunes. Yes, why sitting right there in the same chair that Mayor I. E. Harris had occupied for so many years, we found Mayor Julian Mosley who had as his secretary Emma Jean Journigan.

As we walked out of City Hall, whom should we bump into but Buddy Crews and Peggy who told us excitedly that Buddy was getting ready to try out for the New York Knickerbockers. Here's hoping he makes it! While talking to Buddy and Peggy, George glanced at the sign next door which read, "Modern Beauty Salon—Ann Rea, hair stylist." Since Ann was another classmate we decided to go up to see how she was getting along. Ann's only customer at the moment was Sue Averette. Walking in, we heard Ann trying to persuade Sue that a new, short hair-style would be more becoming. She was flatly refusing to have her hair cut and urged Ann to hurry and finish as she had an appointment with her doctor, who we discovered was Dr. Bob Newton. Yes, Bob had surprised all of us when he left home to study for the medical profession. But now he is back and carrying on a profitable practice. Sue told us she had been going to Dr. Newton for some time, as she was having vocal trouble and could not sing on her T-V program. She also informed us that Sue Peed was Bob's medical secretary. Wonder where Horace is?

George and I decided to drive over Butner way to see what was going on. There we found Barbara Cuddeback, who was married to Billy, eating lunch which consisted of none other than frozen foods!

Next stop on our list was National Guard Headquarters. Here we found Captain David Goss and his two secretaries, Nancy Sherron and Fay Washington. We gossiped awhile with these classmates and discovered that Bette Thomas was now a graduate of U.N.C. and nursing at Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, N. C. Nancy told us that Billy Aiken had been one of the unfortunate, in that he had had to leave Creedmoor. He was now serving with the U. S. Army in Indo-China, but we bet he is thinking about the Journigan girls back home. Another classmate, Nancy informed us about was Pat Cates. Pat, too, had left Creedmoor, but not far. She was now a registered nurse at Watts Hospital, but there had been news of her leaving the nursing profession for a homemaking career.

Now to complete our circle George and I headed for Creedmoor again. Coming into town, we noticed that Granville Theater was under new management. It was another of our classmates, Betty Ayscue, and her husband, whom we did not know.

Being thirsty after such an adventure, we decided to stop in at the drug store for cokes. Whom should we find as a soda jerk but Pete Faulkner. Shirley Hobgood was his able assistant and Helen Averette was his bookkeeper. From what Helen told us Pete really had some books to keep! Also Helen told us about two other Seniors of '55—Barbara Brown, who was now married to Waylon and living in Creedmoor, and Eleanor Murray, who was married to Bryant and living in Stem.

After such a day as this, George and I headed homeward. However our journey was not complete, for just outside of town we met Warren Smith whom we stopped. Warren excitedly told us he had just struck oil while plowing in one of his prize tobacco fields. Last, but certainly not least, came our class success!

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

The Senior Class of '55 has finally come to face the fact that other students will rise to take our place. In order that we shall not be forgotten and that our memory will live, we leave you all our riches, to you our treasures give.

1. To the teachers we give our sincere thanks. How many times they were victims of our pranks!
2. To the Juniors we leave our ability to agree quickly on class discussions.
3. To the Sophomores and Freshmen we leave nothing because we are taking everything with us.
4. Ann Rea leaves to Ilze Sedriks her flirty ways and to Bettie Sue Journigan her short hair.
5. Helen Averette wills her position as cashier in the lunchroom to Mamie Currin and her quiet ways to Christine Turner.
6. Buddy Crews leaves to J. C. Peed his loud talking in the Senior room and his seat to Cindy Pittard. Standing is uncomfortable.
7. George Washington wills his super-duper driving to Bill Bullock and to Jimmy Hayes the roads he has not torn up.
8. Nancy Sherron bequeaths her loud-mouth to Johnny Parrott and witty ways to Shirley Daniel.
9. Pat Cates leaves her love of Fords to Jimmy Taylor and her watchful eye to Bradley Bullock.
10. Warren Smith bequeaths his sneaky ways to Coleman Noell and nothing to Thomas Lane because he gets along with what he has.
11. Sue Peed wills her bookkeeping ability to Jimmie Tomlinson and her school girl figure to Deuard (Petunia) Bowden.
12. Fay Washington leaves to Shirley Cash her ability to switch beaux and to Betty Adcock her laughing spells.
13. Pete Faulkner wills his fib-telling to David Prince and his lovely blond hair to Rachel Patterson.
14. David Goss bequeaths his art talent to William Bailey and his long legs to Barbara Jones.
15. Barbara Brown leaves her neatness to Edith Guthrie and her turned-up nose to Cecil Harris.
16. Eleanor Murray leaves her lovely hair to Jo Anne Beasley and a portion of her height to Zack Whitfield.
17. Janet Whitt leaves her love of basketball to Kathryn Jackson and her senior headaches to Bobby Liner.
18. Sue Averette bequeaths her winning smile to Peggy Whorton and her singing ability to Bobby Haskins.
19. Billy Aiken wills his horse laugh to Tommy Edmondson and his loud gum chewing to Ruth Jarman.
20. Bob Newton leaves his "come hither" eyes to Billy Parrott and his extra poundage to Nelson Freeman.
21. Shirley Hobgood wills to Peggy Oakley her ability to blush and to Joyce Beck her likeable personality.
22. Betty Ayscue leaves to Rassie Fox her seat in the Senior Class and her hair-do to Barbara Kay.
23. Barbara Cuddeback wills her baby ways to Robert Brooks.
24. Emma Jean Journigan wills her ability to play the field to Virginia Neville.
25. Julian Mosley leaves a small part of his brain to John Keith (that's all he can spare).
26. Bette Thomas wills her love of Cadillacs to Coley Sherron.
